- Vacation homes, condos, and secondary residences

Homeowners Insurance

People take out homeowners insurance for the same reason they take out car and health insurance: If a home is damaged or someone else is injured on the property, insurance helps owners cope with the financial consequences. Your home is likely your largest financial investment. It is subject to natural disasters, burglary, vandalism, and liability from injuries suffered on the property. In order to insulate your home from such financial risk, you will most likely want to buy the proper level of homeowners insurance.

Your home is more than a structure; it protects your most valuable possessions. That's why we offer affordable coverage, so you can easily protect what protects you.

Condo Insurance

Designed specifically to protect you from costs your master policy doesn't cover.

As a condo owner, your condo association probably has a master insurance policy that covers a portion of the physical building and grounds. However, this policy likely doesn't cover your personal property, private structures, or property that's your responsibility under your property owner's agreement. This includes updates or improvements you've made to your condo, personal liability, or legal costs if something happens in your condo. Having your own insurance policy to enhance the master policy of your building ensures that you're covered, just in case.

We work with you to provide a comprehensive insurance package to protect all of your valuable personal assets.

Our Insurance Specialist are fully licensed to deliver individual insurance consulting services.

Flood Insurance

Flood insurance covers a dwelling for losses sustained by water damage specifically due to flooding caused by heavy or prolonged rain, melting snow, coastal storm surges, blocked storm drainage systems, or levee dam failure. In many places, a flood is considered a vis major event, and the damage or destruction it causes are uncovered if you do not get supplemental insurance.

Do I need a Flood Insurance?

What you should consider:

- Just one inch of water in an average home can cause more than $25,000 in damage.
- Flooding can happen anywhere. More than 25% of flood insurance claims come from outside a high-risk flood area
- Flooding is the most common and costly natural disaster in the United States.
- If you suffer a flood, you can seek federal disaster assistance, but it may not be enough to make a full recovery. Most homeowners policies don't cover food losses, only flood insurance covers the cost of flood damage.

Earthquake Insurance

Protect your property against earthquakes and the financial devastation cause.

Earthquakes in the United States are not covered under standard homeowners or business insurance policies. Coverage is available either in the form of an endorsement or as a separate policy for homeowners, renters and small business owners.

Although Americans in 42 different states are at risk for an earthquake and related damage, not enough people purchase this important coverage.¹

Your peace of mind is priceless.

An insurance policy helps you to rebuild, repair, and replace property damaged by an earthquake.
